Coast Political Fight Brewing Over Release

Alvin Hatch Expected To Battle Francis For Board Post

Opening shots of the political war in which San Mateo county will be involved within the next few months were fired this week.

Signal for the blasts was a "press release" submitted by Giles B. Johnson, coastside civic worker and county right-of-way agent, to newspapers reviewing the progress made on the Ocean Shore highway and telling of reactions of Coastsiders to the news that the state will soon construct the Pedro Mountain sector.

In the release Johnson states that Alvin S. Match, Half Moon Bay lumber dealer, declares that Supervisors Manuel Francis and Albert Witt deserve credit and that "those men should be kept on the job until it's finished." Johnson quoted Hatch as saying that he has "even considered running for supervisor to get this road built," leaving the implication that now he will decide not to be a candidate.

Hatch, when he learned of the release, hastened to take vigorous exception to the statement, declaring that Johnson has never approached him for a statement.

"It is true that I have and always will work for the coast road, but I certainly didn't say that Francis or Witt should be kept on as supervisors."

Hatch is known to have been considering running against Board Chairman Francis as the coastside's representative.

Asked if he had yet made up his mind finally on the subject, Hatch replied:

"I'll have a definite announcement very shortly."

Johnson, advised of Hatch's attitude, admitted he had not talked personally to Hatch, but rather that the sentiments he attributed to the lumberman were "common gossip."

Johnson's entire press release is devoted to praise for Francis and Witt for their success in getting a $255,000 appropriation for the Pedro Mountain unit of the road.

Moss Beach Seeks 24-Hour Telephones

(Special to The Tribune)

MOSS BEACH, Jan. 16—Twenty-four-hour telephone service for this community will be sought by a committee composed of Giles B. Johnson, J. L. Kent, George M. Havice, Frank Torres, John Paroni and Dante Diandi, according to Havice, president of the Montara Chamber of Commerce. The committee will meet with telephone officials. It is believed that with each subscriber paying 25 cents a month more, the service can be obtained, according to Committee Chairman Johnson.

Howard Firm's Slogan Contest Is Of Interest

The slogan contest now being held by the Howard Buick Company, 265 Lorton avenue, Burlingame, is proving of unusual interest to the public, according to officials of the company. The size and number of prizes in cash, and the short time the contest has to run, closing Monday, January 20, has prompted fast action and slogans are pouring in by mail and personal messenger.

Everybody has an equal chance in a contest of this type. It does not require any particular preparation or skill to win. Just a little time and thought.

Winning slogans are usually won by people who least expect to win. A clever thought, unusual phrasing or a catchy combination of words that people can remember easily are the types of slogans that win big prizes.

The further fact that the Howard Buick Company is a San Mateo county concern and everybody is familiar with its product should stimulate thought and make the contest more interesting and easier. The ad appears today in the Beacon-Advertiser.

Dr. Gans to Study Biber Ouster Data

Before Health Director Charles C. Gans makes his decision on whether to follow recommendation of the grand jury that Mrs. Ellen Biber be removed as superintendent of the Department of Social Welfare, he will give thorough study to all findings of the inquisitors, he announced.

In this connection, Dr. Gans has asked Chairman Edward McDonald of the jury's health committee for his complete report. McDonald has agreed to furnish it.

Meanwhile both the grand jury and the county's health board were to meet tonight. The jury was scheduled to consider other committee reports, but it is expected the Biber case, which has stirred wide interest since the removal recommendation was made public Wednesday, will again be discussed. The health board likely also will consider the matter, it was expected.

Hog Ranch Ordinance Details Worked Out

Final legal details of the proposed hog ranch regulatory ordinance for San Mateo county having been ironed out at a conference Monday in Health Director Charles Gans' office, the measure will be submitted to the board of supervisors for passage Monday. The ordinance fixes a $100 license fee for hog raisers and creates an inspector position at $175 a month, in addition to providing rules for operations of the ranches.

PERRY BYGDNES ELECTED LOCAL C. OF C. PRESIDENT

Harbor, City Beautification, Crossing Hazard Elimination Selected As Objectives

Perry Bygdnes, assistant manager of the local branch, Bank of America, today heads the Redwood City Chamber of Commerce. He was elected at Tuesday afternoon's directorate meeting to succeed Edward T. Harrison, San Mateo County Bank manager who has been president of the local chamber for the past two years.

Election of Bygdnes, who was nominated by Director Donold B. Sevier, was unanimous, as were elections of other officers.

William Hohn, local grocer, was re-elected vice president on nomination of Thomas Joaquin; Ted N. Thompson, San Mateo County Bank assistant cashier, was named treasurer on nomination of James D. Hedge, and Roscoe D. Wyatt was retained as secretary-manager for the coming year.

James D. Hedge, re-elected to the board of directors last week at the annual meeting, presided at the session in the chamber offices.

Plans were made for a membership solicitation to begin February 1, and a budget committee was appointed to consist of Treasurer Thompson, Sevier and Henry Beeger.

In reappointing Wyatt, the directors agreed to pay the secretary a larger salary for the coming year if the budget will permit. During the past year, it was reported, the chamber spent approximately $3,300, ending the year with only a small cash balance but with $1,000 in due pledges.

Principal objectives of the chamber for the coming year, it was agreed, will be the Redwood Harbor development; beautification of city entrances, and elimination of hazards at railroad crossings.

The directors also went on record as being in favor of the "Allin Amendment" proposed in congress to protect inland ports against discrimination as to ports of call. Originated by Col. B. C. Allin, manager of the Port of Stockton, the Amendment would make impossible discrimination by steamship companies between ports which have received federal aid, such as the Stockton and local harbors. Colonel Allin is in Washington at the present time in furtherance of his plan.

Stanford to Get Hopkins' Estate On Wife's Death

Income from the property of Timothy Hopkins of Menlo Park, original Stanford trustee who died January 1 at the age of 76, was bequeathed to his wife, Mary Kellogg Hopkins, under terms of his will filed Monday for probate, but on her death the entire estate goes to Stanford University.

Petitioners are the Wells Fargo Bank and Trust Company, who filed the papers through the law firm of Heller, Ehrman, White & McAuliffe.

Hopkins omits his daughter, Lydia K. Hopkins of San Mateo, from sharing in the estate, saying he knows his wife "has made sufficient provision for her support and maintenance."

Upon death of Mrs. Hopkins, the entire estate is put in the trust of the board of trustees of Stanford, with the provision 60 per cent go to maintain and develop the Hopkins Marine Station; $5000 per year go to support of the collection of the Stanford library's "Hopkins Railway Library" providing the name is changed to "The Hopkins Transportation Library," and the rest be devoted by the university trustees to the establishment and maintenance of the Hopkins Medical Library in Stanford's Lane Library.

Value of the estate is not given. The will was dated March 7, 1934.

Table Toasters Bring Inquiries From Over U. S.

As a result of the installation of electric toastmasters on each table, Ernest A. Fox, proprietor of the Fox Shoppe, local restaurant, has received comment from people throughout the entire United States.

The idea, originated by Fox has been written about in many commercial and trade magazines and has attracted wide attention in the electrical and hardware field as well as from other restaurant operators.

Fox gives the toaster idea much credit for his large increase in business recently, but also states that improving conditions in the nation and particularly in the bay region are responsible to a large degree for the general increase in his business.

HEARING SET ON LAUNDRY APPLICATION

Lot Opposite P. O. Must Be Rezoned For Purpose

Rezoning of the vacant lot opposite the new postoffice and adjoining the Standard Printing Company to permit establishment of a laundry was asked of the city planning commission at a meeting in the city hall Monday night.

The lot is now in the business district and will be changed to the light industrial district unless property owners within 275 feet of the proposed laundry are found overwhelmingly opposed.

Mrs. A. M. Robertson, 909 Jefferson avenue, entered a protest on the laundry at last night's hearing. She said the Jefferson-Middlefield road corner had often been considered for a civic center and that a laundry opposite it would not help that development.

Members of the commission insisted on seeing plans for the proposed two-story building and on determining whether or not the laundry was a "hand laundry" or a "steam laundry."

Dave Walter, realtor, who is representing the owner, whose identity was not revealed last night, offered to secure the information for the next meeting, January 27, when a hearing will be held in the firehouse hall.

L. E. Bunyard of Woodside road and Oxford street was given permission to make alterations on his premises.

Oldest Chevrolet Owner Will Get Millionth Auto

Chevrolet's one millionth car of 1936 production is to be presented to the owner of the oldest Chevrolet licensed and in regular use in the United States. Al Davies of Davies Auto Company, reports that he and other dealers in this locality have been asked to discover whether the oldest Chevrolet is in this territory.

The one millionth Chevrolet built within the current year came off the assembly line at Flint, Mich., on December 12, just eight days after Chevrolet produced its eleven millionth car since the beginning of the company.

Presentation of the millionth car of the year—a 1936 Standard coach—will be made to the owner whose Chevrolet is discovered, between December 16, 1935 and midnight January 15, 1936, to be the oldest model licensed and in regular service.

It is specified that, to win, the old-timer Chevrolet must have been regularly licensed for operation during the current year, possessing its own 1935 license tags issued before December 1. It must, also, have been licensed as a passenger car, and be equipped with a complete passenger car body. It must bear the original engine and chassis numbers, legible and unaltered.

Curtailment Until Hazards Reduced Goal Of Councilmen

City Debates Devices Deemed Necessary At Broadway

Curtailment of train speeds temporarily to prevent further crossing tragedies until such time as studies determine exactly what type of protection is desired at Broadway and other crossings was generally held to be necessary by the city council at a special meeting on the problem Monday night.

Three necessities were viewed by the council:

(1) Curtailment of speed pending better safeguards.

(2) Removal of the freight shed to give an open view of oncoming trains.

(3) Eventual grade separation by overhead or subway construction.

The present freight shed is considered one of the hazards at the Broadway crossing because it blocks the view of oncoming eastbound trains. It also creates hazards from switching operations which increase the danger from 2-train accidents.

Acting City Engineer Charles Dimmitt has suggested a new location in the vicinity of Spruce street.

The council, in discussing the Broadway problem last night heard Maj. H. W. Edmonds, retired army officer and former railroad man, declare that the human flagman protection as now used at the Broadway crossing is the "poorest and least effective system."

He said this applied particularly at night as the small red lantern used by the watchman can hardlly be distinguished from a tail light of an automobile and loses its effectiveness because of the bright lights of the electroliers.

Edmonds declared that the red lantern was partially obscured to motorists approaching the watchman from the rear because he must swing the light in a small arc and must exercise care not to swing it across the tracks or trains would be halted.

SUGGESTS GATES

City Councilman James Eva suggested for consideration that automatic gates as now used in Southgate, in Palo Alto, be used at night here and the flagman be retained during daylight hours.

This type of gate is quick in operation, Eva said, and is provided with a large red light which is unmistakable in its warning. Edmonds agreed this might be the best protection.

Councilman Paul McCarthy suggested that the watchman be dressed in a white suit and that a spotlight be used so that his presence will be emphasized. McCarthy also suggested stop signs at the crossings, 2-train indicators, and wig-wag as alternatives.

Edmonds, McCarthy and Councilman George McNulty discussed the train speeds. City Attorney Albert Mansfield reported that a city ordinance now requires trains to slow down to 35 miles per hour.

Mansfield said that in a previous complaint about speed the company held the trains down to so noticeable a pace that commuters entered vigorous protests.

It was distinctly noticeable here that trains already were operating at diminished speed.

Councilman McCarthy figured that if trains were reduced to 30 miles per hour they would lose 100 seconds and if cut to 50 miles, 60 seconds in running through here.

Mayor Lambert said that some plan for elevating the tracks from San Mateo south may eventually be worked out. Some grade seperation step is considered necessary if the peninsula is to secure rapid transit as it is recognized that both rapid transit and crossings at grade cannot both be had.

The council committee meeting tomorrow at Mayor Lambert's office will decide just what it wishes to have done here and then will contact Southern Pacific officials. On the committee are Mayor Lambert, Councilmen Louis Christensen and Evans Fletcher, and Acting City Manager Charles Dimmitt and City Attorney Albert Mansfield.

Six Chinese to Go On Trial Tuesday

Trial for the first six of the 98 Chinese accused of gambling operations as a result of the recent raid on the alleged "den" near Brisbane was set for next Tuesday afternoon when Attorney Albert Mansfield, representing the Chinese, appeared before Justice Wade H. Clay Monday afternoon.

On behalf of his clients, Mansfield entered not guilty pleas, asking trial.

The first six are charged with being dealers in the elaborately guarded pavilion raided by sheriff's officers and district attorney aides, in cooperation with a detective agency employed by the grand jury.

MENLO PARK NEWS

The city council on Tuesday evening referred the petition of property owners on Middle avenue, asking that some repairs and improvements be made there, to Councilman Dunn. He is to confer with County Engineer Marshall to learn if funds can be secured to make the improvements. It is believed the county will furnish the equipment if the land owners will buy the material.

W. H. Weeden and D. E. O'Keefe, members of the Republican County Committee, attended a meeting of the executive Republican committee of the Eighth congressional district at San Jose Tuesday night. At this meeting, Mr. Alonzo Baker, editor of the Pacific Press of Mountain View, was endorsed for congress to oppose Congressman McGrath at the primaries next August. Mr. Baker is an able speaker, writer and lecurer. Mr. Baker's impromptu address captivated his hearers at the gathering.

Shooting Results In $4,984 Suit

Injuries inflicted on 12-year-old Ralph Sullivan last August 21 when he was hit by a rifle bullet fired from the gun of Raymond Peil, 15, resulted today in a suit for $4984 damages being brought by Sullivan's father, C. C. Sullivan, against the Peil boy and his parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Peil of San Mateo.

The accidental shooting occurred at Pacific Beach, near Burlingame, according to the complaint. Young Sullivan was shot in the right leg.

Ex-Baker's Wife Dies in San Mateo

(Special to The Tribune)

SAN MATEO, Jan. 13.—Mrs. Annie Strohmaier, 10, wife of Charles Strohmaier, retired baker, passed away today at her San Mateo home.

She had been a resident of San Mateo for the past 22 years and before that lived 40 years in San Francisco. Her husband and seven children survive her.

Ground Beautifying Planned for P. O.

As first step toward beautifying the grounds at the new postoffice, bids for a sprinkling system with 200 outlets are now being sought, according to Postmaster R. E. O'Connell Jr. The bids are to be opened at the postoffice February 5. Upon installation of the watering system, the grounds will be planted to shrubbery and 24,000 square feet of lawn which will nearly surround the building, according to plans received by O'Connell.

The STRANGE CASE of JULIA CRAIG

by Nard Jones
Copyright NEA 1936

She Had Beauty, Talent; Fate Swept This 20-Year-Old Girl Into the Midst of a Grave, Exciting, Off-Stage Drama

Amy said, "All right. You don't like the way things are. What are you going to do about it?"

CHAPTER I

HER arms pressing two bundles close against her slender waist, and one small capable hand searching hurriedly for the key in her bag, Julia Craig stood before the door of the little apartment which she shared with Amy Sanders.

When at last she was successful in managing both the key and the two bulky bundles and had entered the apartment without mishap, Amy looked at her from the security of the room's one davenport. As dark as Julia was blond, Amy had reached home a few moments before, slipped into her red negligee and settled herself comfortably with a magazine.

"Sure," said Amy cheerfully. "But I knew you had a key."

"You knew it was my day to bring the groceries, too," said Julia from the kitchenet where she was disposing of the bundles on the diminutive tile drainboard. "And you knew I'd be loaded down like a truck horse."

Through the open doorway, Amy surveyed Julia's figure enviously. "You're a long way from being a truck horse, darling. Why don't you wear that black dress all the time? You're certainly a swell dish in it."

Julia returned to the room. Taking her smart little hat carefully by its front brim she lifted it from her blond head and tossed it on the table.

* * *

AMY gazed at her critically. "Bad day at the office, Julia?"

"No worse than most, I suppose," Julia said.

"Well," Amy sighed, "at least it's exciting to work for lawyers. You should try to sell the latest models to these old hens for eight hours a day."

"I'd think it would be interesting, Amy. You get a chance to see in the flesh some of these women I can see only through their pictures in the society section."

Amy snorted. "Personally, I'd rather look at them in pictures. I waited on Mrs. Hamilton Uzzon today. Ever hear of her?"

"Of course," Julia said. "She had a tea for the Garden Club last week."

"Yeah," said Amy irreverently. "Listen—the Uzzon bill hasn't been paid at our shop for a year and a half. Mrs. Hamilton Uzzon couldn't buy an extra button in our place unless she paid cash, and all the girls have instructions to that effect. Mrs. Uzzon knows it, too—but she comes into the shop with her friends and tries on dresses by the hour. Then when it's all over she says, 'Really, I think your gowns are getting awfully nondescript.'"

Julia laughed. "I think that's delightful!"

"Well, if you had to listen to it you wouldn't have such a nice sense of humor," Amy mentioned. "And we all have to be nice to her because her husband may pay the bill any minute—and because she has influence."

"That's the whole story," said Julia reflectively. "You have to be nice to her, because she has influence."

* * *

She tossed the magazine to the foot of the davenport and brought her slippered feet to the floor. "What's got into you, Julia? You've been moping for weeks now. You used to be the life of the party when we'd have the gang in. Last time they were here you wouldn't even sing a song for us. And everybody knows you can make a song sound all right, even when the tune isn't so good and the words are absolutely senseless."

"What do you mean, 'everybody' knows it?" inquired Julia, getting up restlessly. "Maybe the gang, as you call them, knows it. But nobody else does."

"What do you care about that?"

Julia turned suddenly, her eyes gleaming. "I care a lot, Amy. I'm sick and tired of working for Woodford and Brooks."

"It's a good job, Julia. You get a lot more money than I do. A lot more than most girls working downtown."

"What if I do? Where does it get me?" Julia paced to the window and looked out. Then she said, slowly: "I'm 20, Amy."

"I'm 25," Amy said, "and I'm still having a lot of fun."

Julia turned. "Maybe you are," she said cruelly, "but its not the kind of fun I want. Amy, I don't want to be George Woodford's secretary until I'm old. I'll—I'll be like Miss Jamieson down at the office. She's been there for 22 years."

"Maybe she likes it," said Amy. "Every girl isn't as ambitious as you are, Julia."

"Aren't they?" argued Julia. "I'm not so sure. I think they are—until life gets them down."

* * *

AMY SANDERS stared at the carpet a moment. Then: "Julia . . . you said Peter Kemp wanted to marry you. Why don't you take him up?"

"Because I don't want to," said Julia quickly.

"Because you don't love him?" asked Amy quietly.

"I haven't thought about love, Amy. But I've thought about some things that are a darned sight more important. Peter Kemp doesn't get any more money at Woodford and Brooks' than I do. They use him to brief their cases—then Mr. Woodford or Mr. Brooks goes into court and makes the brilliant showing. I don't want to marry a man like that, Amy."

Amy didn't reply at once. She reached for a cigaret from the pack on the little table. When she had lighted it and blown a pillar of smoke toward the ceiling, she said, "Well . . . I didn't mean you'd have to take Peter. But in a job like yours you have a chance to meet a lot of likely men."

"Oh, yes," said Julia. "We have a chance to meet men. But—" she faced her roommate squarely. "Amy, the average girl working in an office is stuck any way you look at it. We work for wages that most men wouldn't think of accepting; and we do plenty of work, too. Lots of times we correct the mistakes of men who get three and four times the salary we get. And you talk about the chances for meeting marriagable men—Amy, the men we meet are of two kinds, usually. The kind that want to marry us, but who can't improve our status. And the kind who offer something less than marriage—and expect us to like it!"

Amy looked at her roommate curiously. "All right," she said. "You don't like the way things are. What are you going to do about it?"

CHAPTER II

JULIA said, without hesitation, "You know me well enough to know that if I didn't have some ideas for changing things I wouldn't be kicking." She took a long breath, then went on, "Amy, I'm going to try to do something with my voice. I don't mean anything fancy. But I know I have a knack for singing these modern songs."

Amy's tone was comically astonished. "You—you don't mean one of these female crooners?"

"Call it whatever you like," said Julia. "That's my plan."

"I guess I'll have to get a radio," Amy said, aloud as if to herself. "I saw a perfect honey yesterday for $5 down."

"I'm not kidding, Amy. But I don't mean radio singing. I know perfectly well that I haven't the best voice in the world, and that maybe I'll have to use my face and figure, too." She laughed. "Assuming I have them. You're always telling me I have."

"You know perfectly well you have. Did you ever look at a man's face when you were singing one of these modern torch songs?"

Julia took a cigaret of her own, tapped its end against the table, then put it down without touching it to her lips. "I'm going to try to get a job singing, Amy. It's my only chance to be something and to meet the right men. I won't work at Woodford and Brooks' until I'm old—until I get panicky and marry the first man who comes along!"

Amy started toward the kitchen. "Well, let's forget it now and see what we can make of the groceries you brought home."

Julia started to put on a kitchen apron over her black dress, but she had hardly tied the knot at her waist when the telephone rang. It was Peter Kemp. "I'm sorry, but I haven't had the chance to call you before this. I worked late at the office. Hope you haven't started dinner yet, because I'd like to take you out."

* * *

JULIA was hesitating at the telephone when Amy Sanders came in from the kitchenet. "Tell him you'll go to dinner with him," she advised quickly. "Royal Nesbitt is coming to take me out after dinner, and I'd have to hurry through it, anyhow."

"All right," said Julia into the mouthpiece. "I'd like to come, Peter."

When she replaced the instrument in its cradle she was facing Amy's amused smile. "I'm not weakening," she told Amy. "I happer to know that Peter has a friend who leads an orchestra. Maybe he can get me a chance to sing."

"Okay, darling. Go change your clothes while I have a cup of coffee to strengthen myself against Royal Nesbitt."

Julia Craig left the telephone and walked toward Amy. "You've been giving me some advice, Amy. What about this Royal Nesbitt?"

"What do you mean?"

"I mean . . . he has money, and everybody in town knows he's not very serious-minded. Why is he giving you a run?"

"Why not?" asked Amy. "He likes me, and I think he's a lot of fun."

Julia's glance met that of Amy Sanders, met it squarely. "You'll watch your step, won't you?"

Amy grinned. "I always do, Julia. There's something funny about a dizzy blond giving advice to a brunet. But I get your point, all right."

"I may be blond," said Julia. "But I'm not dizzy . . . yet."

"You're telling me?" asked Amy, and went to see to the percolator while Julia went into the dressing room which was also the hiding place for the fold-down bed. In that confined space, under a rather feeble electric light, she changed her clothes and prepared herself for Peter Kemp's call.

* * *

HE rang the bell promptly a half hour later. He was a well set-up young man, neatly dressed and alert—and his eyes showed plainly that he worshiped Julia Craig.

"Sorry to creep up on you like this," he said when she let him in. "But I was working late at the office, and it suddenly occurred to me that I ought to stay downtown and have dinner with you—if you'd let me."

"I'm glad you thought of it tonight," Julia said, laughing. "Amy's all in a stir to get out for a date—so I don't think she'd be much company at dinner."

Amy emerged from the dressing room, hooking a flowered print dress. "Hullo, Peter. I warn you about Miss Craig tonight. This is one of her moody days."

Peter and Julia exchanged glances which told Amy that Peter Kemp was all too familiar with Julia's "moody days."

"Is that right?" he said lightly. "I'm afraid I'm in for it, then."

"I'm afraid you are," said Amy and disappeared into the dressing room again. "However," she called out, "I hope you have a good time."

When Peter and Julia were outside in the hall, he said, "Amy didn't really seem very hopeful that we would have a good time. What's wrong, Julia? Got the blues again?"

Julia nodded. "I'm afraid so, Peter. But they're not so bad this time. At last I've decided to do something about them."

He pressed the button for the automatic elevator, and said quietly: "I don't suppose that means you'll marry me?"

"N-no, Peter. I—" Julia hesitated. "I'll tell you all about it at dinner."

* * *

THEY ate in a little restaurant near the apartment, for it developed that Peter had to complete his work at the office. It was on the big public utilities case that Julia had mentioned to Amy, and Peter had to prepare a brief for a phase of it. When the coffee came, Peter offered his cigarets and said, "All right, Julia. Let's have it."

"I want to quit Woodford and Brooks, Peter."

"Yes? What then?"

Julia looked at him. "I—I've decided to try to sing, Peter."

"You've decided to try?" exclaimed Kemp. "Say, right now you're better than nine-tenths of these dames who get paid for it in the night clubs!"

"You really think so?"

"I know it, Julia."

"Then will you give me a note of introduction to your friend, Henri Lamb, who leads the band at the Green Club?"

The directness of her question surprised Peter. "Why—I—"

"Will you, Peter?"

"Why, of course, if you're really serious. But I don't see—"

"My mind's made up, Peter. And you can help me, if you will. You've known Lamb a long time."

"I'd do anything in the world for you, Julia. You know that. I'll—I'll write the note tonight and give it to you tomorrow morning at the office."

$7,000,000 in LOCAL TAXES

P. G. and E. PAYS MILLIONS TO CITIES AND TO COUNTIES

We have paid the first installment of our 1935-36 tax bill to local subdivisions of government throughout the territory we serve. The total for the year will be approximately $7,000,000.

Every city and county and every school district receives a share of this amount. The first payments ranged from $1,262,137.29 to the City and County of San Francisco, to lesser amounts in smaller communities.

UTILITY TAXES RELIEVE PRIVATE PROPERTY

Under the Riley-Stewart Act, which repealed the State tax upon the gross revenues of public utilities, the property of this Company is now assessed and taxed by local governments in the same manner as all other property.

Restoration of utility property to general taxation gives to every local government a substantial increase in tax revenue and thus relieves other property of part of its tax load. In San Francisco, for example, the P. G. and E.'s tax payments for the year represent 20 cents of the tax rate.

LARGEST TAXPAYER IN 28 COUNTIES

In addition to being the largest taxpayer in California, this Company now becomes the largest taxpayer in each of 28 counties of the State—more deeply concerned than ever with the responsibilities of citizenship in each community it serves.

P. G. and E. Taxes

San Francisco, City and County	$1,011,979.31

WILSON TO TALK ON PENSION PLAN

Townsendites Secure Noted Pulpit Orator For Local Meeting

Ben Wilson, noted pulpit orator, will speak on the Townsend Revolving Pension Plan at the Sequoia high school auditorium next Saturday night at 8 o'clock, John E. Cowgill, president of the Redwood Townsend Club No. 1, announced today.

"Regardless of individual opinion, no one should pass up the opportunity of hearing Mr. Wilson," said Cowgill in urging local residents to attend the gathering.

"His talk will be not only an educational but also a literary treat. This address should appeal to the young and ambitious prospective and future orators in particular who are still looking for an opportunity to display their histrionic talents as well as that of the forensic."

S. M. TRAFFIC FINES $77

(Special to The Tribune)

SAN MATEO, Jan. 15.—A vigorous traffic drive prosecuted by police resulted yesterday in appearance of 40 traffic offenders in the municipal court of Judge Arthur H. Stetson, 30 persons paying $1 fines for driving through stop-signs and overtime-parking, others contributing an additional $47.

Here's Swift and Direct Action to Relieve That Cold
JUST RUB ON AT BEDTIME

Two generations of mothers have proved Vicks VapoRub the most effective treatment for children's colds. VapoRub is external—and safe. Its use avoids the risks of constant internal "dosing" which so often upset digestion and appetite, thus lowering body resistance when most needed.

Just rubbed on throat and chest at bedtime, VapoRub starts to work immediately—two ways at once:
1. By stimulation through the skin, like a poultice or plaster—
2. By inhalation of its penetrating medicated vapors, released by body heat and breathed in direct to inflamed air-passages.

A Practical Guide for Mothers

Each year, more and more families are being helped to fewer colds and shorter colds by Vicks Plan for Better Control of Colds. Vicks Plan has been clinically tested by practicing physicians, and further proved in everyday home use by millions. Full details of the Plan in each package of Vicks VapoRub.

VICKS VA-TRO-NOL

Local Resident For 15 Years Taken By Death

Following a period of declining health, Mrs. Ellen Murphy passed away Wednesday at her home, 35 Arch street.

She had resided in this city for the past 15 years, prior to which she lived in Palo Alto for four years. She was born in Milwaukee, Wis., 76 years ago. For many years she made her home in Minnesota.

She is survived by her husband, Patrick Murphy; two daughters, Mrs. Clara Chambers and Mrs. Laura Joyce, both of Seattle; and a son, Dr. William H. Murphy of San Mateo. Two grand children also survive, June and Bonnie Joyce of Seattle.

The funeral will be held Friday at 9:30 a.m. from the Layng & Tinney Funeral Home, thence to Mt. Carmel Church where a requiem mass will be celebrated commencing at 10 o'clock. The interment will follow in Holy Cross Cemetery at Colma.

A handwriting expert has figured out mathematically that the chance of two people writing exactly alike is one in 68,000,000,000,000.

FORECLOSURES AT M. P. START IN 2 WEEKS

(Special to The Tribune)

MENLO PARK, Jan. 15.—Action to collect a block of four-year delinquent Menlo Park street improvement tax payments will be initiated within the next two weeks, City Attorney James T. O'Keefe Jr., declared last night before a meeting of the city council.

First step under the council's policy to force legal foreclosure if payments or funding arrangements are not made, will be a registered letter directed to each delinquent taxpayer. O'Keefe will secure a correct list of taxes overdue from the county auditor's office within a few days. According to Councilman Irving Dunn, who made an unofficial check, there were last reported 11 parcels of land in the four-year delinquent group, with a total payment due of $1690.15.

According to a resolution adopted December 3, the council agreed to begin foreclosure proceedings against those property owners four years in arrears, with the extension of 90 days of grace to those who appeared before the council with an arrangement to fund their tax debts by April 1.

Residents of Middle avenue who desire the city to repair that thoroughfare will be obliged to wait until the county is consulted. Responsibility for the maintainance of Middle avenue is uncertain, the council learned. Part of the right of way belongs entirely to the city, although it is bounded on one side by the city and on the other by county land.

Street Commissioner Dunn suggested that legal entanglements could be avoided and the avenue improved through a simple arrangement whereby the city furnished the labor, the county loaned the machinery, and the residents of the street purchased the material to be used.

A petition signed by 41 citizens living on or near the street, and a letter from the board of trustees of Sequoia Union High School, protesting that the road is unsafe and that it must be used every school day by the district's school busses, were received.

The city clerk's hours were established from 9 to 12 o'clock mornings, 1:30 to 4:30 o'clock afternoons, with half a day off Saturdays. A sign board will be procured and placed in the front entrance of the city hall containing information about business hours of the various officials.

George F. Nesbitt was appointed by Mayor James Cooper to the city planning commission in place of Alphonse Seiler, whose term expired this month. The council accepted recommendations of the planning commission approving the establishment of a new-subdivision to be known as "Friendly Acres" on a tract bounded by the Bayshore highway and Bay road. Acting on the commission's approval, the council agreed to pay for replacement of approximately one dozen dead trees on Oak Grove road.

Jack Ketch, the famous English executioner whose nickname was applied to his successors for nearly two centuries, was appointed public hangman in 1663, historians believe.

Road Bureau Goes On Five-Day Week

All county employes in the road department and the corporation yard here have been placed on a five-day, 40-hour week, County Engineer Urban S. Marshall announced today.

The ruling will affect a total of 85 employes, 75 in the road department and 10 employed in the corporation yard and garage. Marshall said that the ruling, with which the workers are in complete accord, will effect a saving of $2,800 a year.

FREE PRIZES!

HOWARD BUICK COMPANY, BUICK MOTOR CAR DEALERS, BURLINGAME, WILL GIVE VALUABLE PRIZES AWAY FOR A SUITABLE BUSINESS SLOGAN TO BE USED THROUGH THE YEAR 1936.

FIRST PRIZE
$50 in cash and a $200 Credit Voucher

SECOND PRIZE
$25 in cash and a $150 Credit Voucher

THIRD PRIZE
$15 in cash and a $125 Credit Voucher

HONORABLE MENTION
$100 Credit Voucher

DIRECTIONS

First prize goes to the person who sends in the best slogan in the opinion of the Judges, whose decision will be final.
Second prize goes to the next best, and so on.

Here are five examples of slogans which are now in use by other firms:
"Buick's the buy for 1936"
"The Spice of the Program"
"Goes a long way to make friends"
"The place Where Sales and Service Meet"
"When better Automobiles are Built Buick Will Build Them"

It is not necessary to use either the name, Howard Buick Co., or "Buick" in the slogan, although one or both may be used if desired. Send in as many slogans as you wish.

THE JUDGES WHO WILL DECIDE THIS CONTEST ARE:
Thomas C. Wilson,
Advertising Manager, San Mateo Times.
Morgan McGrath,
Advertising Manager, Burlingame Advance-Star
Wallace B. Kirkes,
Automobile Editor, San Mateo Times

HERE ARE SOME HELPFUL FACTS FOR WORKING UP YOUR SLOGAN:

Howard Buick Co. is now enjoying the biggest business in its history. Buick has sold more eight-cylinder automobiles in San Mateo County than any other car with the exception of one low priced car.

Howard Buick Co. is one of the largest and most complete automobile establishments on the Peninsula. Full sales and service facilities with factory trained mechanics.

WHY WE DO THIS

It is a well known fact that sound advertising is the life of business. In advertising short, catchy phrases and sentences called slogans are highly valuable. We need them and will gladly pay for them and are taking this method of getting a number of suggestions.

Most slogans which have brought fortunes to business houses were thought of by some one not connected with the house. Cash and credit vouchers will be given to people who least expect them. Equal prizes in case of tie.
All prizes are given free.
Successful contestants will be notified by mail.
Credit vouchers transferable.
More than one Honorable Mention prize will be issued.
Any one credit voucher, good for face value not to exceed one-half the purchase price on any new or used car in our stock, excepting Honorable Mention credit voucher, which is good for face value not to exceed one-half the purchase price on a used car only. Credits expire at 9 P. M. Wednesday, January 29, 1936.
All slogans must be in the mail by 9 p. m. Monday, January 20, 1936.
